Features:

Interior

The house itself is Grade II listed, combining classical Georgian and Gothic architecture with a Tudor-esque influence, incorporating charming features like carved stone finials, pergola-like turrets and ornamental chimneys. The wide bay windows and heavy oak front door are set in stone surrounds, while the interiors have been carefully maintained and renovated, combining elegant period characteristics (like ornate chimneypieces, Gothic arch panels and graceful ceiling mouldings); with modern comforts (from five luxurious bathrooms to the contemporary utility room and office). Among the magnificent rooms are 11 bedrooms, with all the principal rooms facing the sea, grand reception, drawing and dining rooms, a charming library and study and a spacious kitchen.

Exterior

Set in 77 rambling acres with magnificent sea views. The generous grounds include a 2.5 mile private driveway, terraced lawns, a walled garden, paddocks, ancient woodland, a secret garden, streams, footbridges, a rose pergola, ornamental trees and a stretch of foreshore with direct access to the beach.
