Interior

This house was built in the late 1800's and retains an authentic, cottage-like feel whilst having all necessary modern amenities.

The property includes individual and authentic items, down to the traditional sanitary ware that you will find in the bathroom, along with a cast iron bath.

The space is incredibly light, the kitchen has a roof light above a farmhouse dining table. Downstairs is open plan and spacious, with a large Chesterfield sofa and armchair and the floor is all antique oak.

Upstairs, both bedrooms have large antique beds. The main bedroom has roof lights to allow maximum light in. All of the freestanding furniture is antique, comprising mainly one off pieces. Furnishings are of British and Eastern influence as well.
