Interior

Period house, Victorian and earlier, inside has cornice and picture rails, fireplace downstairs and in bedrooms, traditional style radiators, high ceilings and flagstone floor in the hallway. Style of rooms vary from designer modern to traditional. Kitchen unique with semi-circular island unit with cooking area, Black Aga and semi-circular table for 12 with seating into bay window. Interesting staircases from traditional to winding cottage style. Contemporary glass walled morning room with sliding glass doors which give an outdoor feel with views over Painswick and a wonderful sunset.

Master bedroom with dressing room and bathroom, (50m2) high ceilings with cornice and fireplaces - Elegant rooms. 3 more bedrooms and 3 more bathrooms.

Downstairs hallway with library off featuring an original art nouveau fireplace (16m2), and downstairs cloakroom, large sitting room (30m2) leading via wide double doors to kitchen dinning room (25m2) plus butlers pantry then onto the glass walled morning room (24m2)

Exterior

The house is an impressive building, the vernacular of the era, dating back to the 1890's, built of cotswold stone rendered under a tiled roof with gabled elevations. Wisteria growing to the front elevations, it is approached by a gravel driveway and high dry stone walling, which encloses the private gardens with an ornamental pond and 'Hot Tub' in it's own cabin. Standing in mature and partly wooded grounds of around one acre. To the west it overlooks Painswick, affectionally known as "the Queen of the Cotswolds". To the south it overlooks the Slad valley and Frith Wood which adjoins the property (SSI site). To the east the sunrise over rolling countryside.

Mature gardens

Quiet situation with one acre mature gardens.

Adjacent to wooded common, easy access to property,

Plenty of parking.
