Interior

Each of the Suites is designed and inspired by people and places from the county of Yorkshire. The site is inspired by owner's North American heritage and his Canadian grandmother's tales of the American Great Camps - rustic, wilderness retreats, more akin to woodland hotels, they built for wealthy industrialists in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The owners were keen to recreate the magic of these camps, in a rugged Yorkshire setting .

At the centre of the site is a large woodshed with comfortable seating and tea/coffee facilities. This space could be made available for production services if required.

Exterior

Nestling within 500 acres of native English woodland in the peaceful Yorkshire Wolds. The suites are private and well-spaced, these each have a large veranda, Close by is The Woodshed, a communal chill out area with an outdoor fire pit and oodles of natural woodland beyond.
