Interior

Home to the Talbot-Ponsonby family since 1842, the House dates back to the 17th century, when Royalist soldiers captured at the Battle of Cheriton were forced to dig the vaults, now used as an extension to the restaurant. There are 13 bedrooms all en-suite and individually decorated. Every room enjoys beautiful views over the 14 acres of beautifully landscaped grounds. There is also a drawing room, dining room, a wood panelled conference suite - which holds up to 90 people - and several smaller rooms in the underground vaults. The property is available for exclusive use for film, TV or photographic purposes, or for private or corporate events.
