Interior

This is an original 1939 Belman Hangar. Built for the RAF at the outbreak of WW2. Some of the rooms have been refurbished, 3 are in a derelict state but watertight. The Hangar is still originally clad with corrugated steel sheets, with a modern roof. The floor space is 35 metres wide and 25 metres deep. The acoustics are excellent for music.

Exterior

The Aircraft Hangar is on the edge of the Airfield so has open views from the Hangar doors. Outside there is a perimeter walkway and a small stone chip area in front of the office buildings. The steel cladding has some age so it looks like an very old building.
